

OUR BABCOCK FAMILY

OUR BABCOCK FAMILY

The Babcock genealogy has already been written (note references below). Therefore, I will not repeat it in depth here. Instead I will follow our direct line from our immigrant ancestor James Badcock, Babcock down through the generations to James Babcock⁷, my great, great, great grandfather. At that point I will then begin to include all data known to me regarding this man's descendants.

The Babcock family in the United States is a branch of the Badcock family of England. According to tradition the first Badcock to come from England to America was James Badcock, alleged to be a younger brother of a Sir Richard Badcock who, in 1612, lived at Wivenhoe in Essex County, England

Stephen Babcock, M.A.
Eaton & Mains. 1903

James Badcock was born in Essex County, England, in 1612 and died in Stonington, Connecticut, 12 June 1679. He first appeared in Portsmouth, Rhode Island, in 1642. He held the office of Commissioner from 1656 to 1659 and was by occupation a blacksmith and gunsmith. He moved to Westerly, Rhode Island, with his family soon after 1664.

"History of Stonington"

Our Babcock family began in the United States with the above described James Babcock who was born in Essex County, England, in 1612, and who died in Stonington, Connecticut, 12 June 1679. After living in the United States for forty years, he changed the spelling of his name to Babcock and our line of the family has been Babcock ever since. James was married twice. His first wife was Sarah _____ who died ca 1665.

- Children: James - born 1641
- John² - born 1644
- Job - born ca 1646
- Mary - born ca 1648

His second wife was Elizabeth _____.

John Babcock² (James¹) was born in Portsmouth, Rhode Island, in 1644, and died in Westerly, Rhode Island, 26 June 1685. He married Mary Lawton, daughter of George and Elizabeth Hazard Lawton. Mary died in Westerly, Rhode Island, 8 November 1711. The following account tells of their "marriage":

If we may believe tradition, and it appears to be as reliable as much that passes for history, Westerly began with a romance. The story is that Mary Lawton, daughter of George and Elizabeth Hazard Lawton, fell in love with her father's hired man from Plymouth. She was a young woman of decision quickly put into action. Her father had other and equally decided views, but the young couple hurdled all obstacles.

Failing to obtain parental sanction for their union, this pair married themselves by affirmation, which seems to have been as binding as a more conventional ceremony, stowed themselves and their frugal belongings in a canoe, and headed through the rough waters of Point Judith westward along the mainland, tales of which had probably come to them from wandering Indians. They paddled up the Pawcatuck and built a shelter on Mastuxet Brook. In its primitive state it must have been a veritable Garden of Eden, and as their son James was the first child of the white race born here, they may properly be called the first parents of Father Lawton seems to have underestimated Babcock's ability to fend for himself and family, for they prospered. To the well being of the infant settlement Mary contributed a brood of children. She was the mother of two when an Indian revealed her retreat and her father came over to urge her return to the more elegant society of Newport. She must have found her wild, free life agreeable for she refused to move, and as the Indians were her only neighbors her story belies the legends of their untamable hostility. Many of her numerous descendants have wandered far afield; others remained in the home town and have given a good account of themselves throughout their generations.

For more information about this couple and their romantic beginnings including a ballad which was written about them, see "Westerly (R.I) And Its Witnesses, 1626-1876, by Rev. Frederic Denison, A.M.. 1878

Both John and Mary along with many of their descendants are buried in the old Babcock Burial Ground which is near the place where they settled. It is located two and a half miles south of Westerly on the Watch Hill Road and is designated by an historical marker near the road as "Rhode Island Historical Cemetery, Westerly, #7. (In 1982 it was badly overgrown.)

Mary Lawton's father, George Lawton, arrived in New England in 1634. He died in Portsmouth, Rhode Island, 5 October 1693 and was buried in his orchard. Lawton is a lineage of historic Cheshire, England, since the age of the Conqueror. A long and ancient pedigree of the family exists since the reign of Henry VI.

"New England Families",
Rhode Island Edition, Vol. I.

Mary Lawton's mother, Elizabeth Hazard, was the daughter of Thomas R. Hazard and his first wife Martha _____ . Thomas Hazard was born in 1610 and was among the founders of the Rhode Island Colony. He first appeared in Boston in 1635 and two years later was in Portsmouth, Rhode Island. He died in Portsmouth in 1688. For more information on the Hazard line, see "Hazard Family of Rhode Island - 1635 to 1894", by Caroline E. Robinson, 1896.

The following article about (4) James Ross Babcock⁸ is taken from;
"A History of Steuben County, New York, And Its People," by Irwin W. Near, Vol. II, 1911:

James Ross Babcock came to Steuben County with his father, James Babcock, when he was eighteen years of age. The latter settled on the Cohocton River and later moved to Buffalo, when it was only a village. James Ross Babcock lived for some time in Coshocton, Ohio, but returned to Steuben County and engaged in business as a contractor and builder, as well as a farmer. He erected a large number of buildings in the county and lived on his farm in Fremont until eighty years of age. He took an active part in local politics and was a devout member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. When he located on his farm there was but two acres of land cleared and he continued the work of clearing and improving it. He owned one hundred and thirty acres. He married Ruth Phillips, a native of Cohocton, New York. They were among the early settlers of Steuben County and were very well known.

The following article about (17) W. W. Babcock⁹ is taken from, "A History of Steuben County, New York, And Its People," by Irvin W. Near, Vol. II, 1911:

Among the prominent citizens of Hornellsville, New York, is W. W. Babcock, who takes a prominent part in public affairs and is well established in business. His boyhood days were spent in Fremont and he was educated in the public schools. He was reared on a farm and carried on his farm in young manhood. When he started business on his own account he began dealing in monuments, working first as traveling salesman for the Field and Alden Granite Company, with who he remained fourteen years, when he left their employ to engage in business on his own account. He is an expert in his line, having been engaged in the business as salesman and proprietor about thirty-two years. He has been very successful in establishing himself in the esteem and confidence of the people of his vicinity, and besides this business owns a farm of one hundred and twelve acres near by, which is mostly devoted to grain. He rents this land to good advantage.

Mr. Babcock is a member of the I.O.O.F, and is very active in church work, having been a trustee of the Methodist Episcopal Church for about fifteen years. He has been a lifelong Republican and has taken great interest in public and political affairs, and has held various offices. He has served as town clerk and commissioner of highways, has been postmaster of Fremont and is now a member of the board of public works of Hornell. He has always supported every cause which he considered for the benefit and welfare of the community, and is looked upon with great respect by all who know him.

About 1875, while Mr. Babcock was carrying on his farm, he lost his left arm in a threshing machine. However, in spite of this misfortune, he continues in excellent health and is as much interested as ever in matters of public moment.
